

AHMED MEHDI

MANAGING DIRECTOR, RENAISSANCE ENERGY
ADVISORS & SENIOR RESEARCH FELLOW, OIES

Ahmed's work focuses on dynamics in the oil market (pricing, supply and refining) and the battery-to-electric vehicle supply chain (lithium and graphite markets). Alongside his role at OIES, Ahmed serves as Managing Director at Renaissance Energy Advisors (REA), an energy research firm. He also serves as a Principal Advisor at Benchmark Minerals Intelligence, where he has worked with government teams, banks, energy companies and investors involved in the lithium-ion battery supply chain. Ahmed previously acted as an advisor to BHP Petroleum and has spent over a decade working in the fields of corporate strategy, energy finance, and pricing. He regularly writes and comments on energy issues in the media, including the Financial Times, the New York Times, Bloomberg, S&P Global Platts, the Wall Street Journal, and the Middle East Economic Survey (MEES). He also serves as a Non-Resident Fellow at the Center on Global Energy Policy (CGEP) at Columbia University's School of International and Public Affairs. He holds degrees from the University of Oxford (St Antony's College) and University College London.

