

AMRITA SEN

FOUNDER AND DIRECTOR OF RESEARCH ENERGY ASPECTS

Amrita Sen is the founder and Director of Research at Energy Aspects. Amrita leads Energy Aspects' analysis and forecasting of crude and products markets. Amrita's deep understanding of the complex relationships within the global energy sector, her wealth of industry contacts and 12 years of experience, allow for a unique perspective on market outlook. She holds an MPhil in Economics from Cambridge University, a BSc in Economics from the University of Warwick, and has a PhD from the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London. She was formerly Chief Oil Analyst for Barclays Capital and is frequently featured in leading media outlets, including the Financial Times, BBC News, Reuters, Bloomberg, CNBC, Wall Street Journal, and Sky News. Amrita is regarded as a leading authority on oil markets and a sought-after speaker for top industry conferences.

